

Lucas Moreno is a paediatric oncologist dedicated to early clinical trials and neuroblastoma. He started his career in the Royal Marsden Hospital (London, UK), then created and directed the Clinical Trials Unit at Hospital Niño Jesus in Madrid (2013-2019) and currently leads the Division of Paediatric Haematology and Oncology in Vall d'Hebron Hospital, Barcelona, Spain. He is an active member of European consortia for neuroblastoma (SIOPEN) and early clinical trials (ITCC) and leads the BEACON-Neuroblastoma trial. His research interests are predictive and pharmacodynamic biomarkers, drug development and clinical trial methodology.

